MRS. HICKMAN TO TAKE STAND MUNICIPAL WHARF COURT ACTION TRANSFERRED TO MARTINEZ

The CORE

Fortune Gallo, operatic impresario, has filed suit for $50,000 damages against Tito Ruffo, Metropolitan Opera tenor, because the former charges his professional pride was injured when the latter called him a "Piccolo Impresario."

Vivian Duncan, other half of the Duncan Sisters stars of "Poppy and Eva," has admitted that her engagement to Gils Ascher, motion picture actor, has gone "on the rocks." "We just drifted apart," Vivian declared.

A company of Alpine Chasseurs, the famous "Blue Devils" rendered honors to Cincuenta Blasco Ibarras, noted Spanish author, whose funeral services were held in Menton, France, his home in exile.

Governor C. C. Young, has been appealed to by James Corbin of Yuba county, who charges that he has been barred from gambling "joints" in the Chinese quarter of Marysville, because of his heavy winnings.

The Earl of Warwick, aide-de-camp to Lord French during the World War and attached to the staff of General John J. Pershing during the latter part of the war, passed away in England yesterday after a long illness.

TERMINAL FIRM $100,000 SUIT TRANSFERRED

MARTINEZ, Jan. 31.—Suit for $100,000 filed in San Francisco by the Richmond Terminal Corporation against the Parr Terminal Company, Mayor Mattie Chandler and other Richmond officials, in which the plaintiff is seeking judgment for profits lost through the City of Richmond granting exclusive control of the municipal wharf to the Parr Company, was transferred to Contra Costa County for trial today on the petition of the defendants to the action.

All members of the Richmond city council, City Manager J. A. McVittie and Chief of Police Dan Cox are named as defendants.

The action claims that O. Zugg, president of the Richmond Terminal Corporation and a gang of stevedores were prevented from entering upon the wharf by an armed squad of policemen following action of the council on November 3, 1926, in granting exclusive wharf control to the Parr Company. At the time entrance was denied, the action contends, the company had a large quantity of freight on the pier to handle.

Citing that the company enjoyed the wharf privileges for some years before the exclusive control order of the council, the company declares that it has lost profits of $30,000 annually through being prevented from using the dock, which, it contends, is a public structure.

OAK. MECHANIC SENTENCED ON GIRL ATTACK

MARTINEZ, Jan. 31.—Don Agnew, automobile mechanic of Oakland, this morning pleaded guilty to simple assault following his arrest in Oakland last night by Deputy Sheriff Sweeney and Frank Wilson on complaint of George Wetts, 512 Sixteenth street, Oakland, who accused Agnew of attempting to assault his 17-year-old daughter while motoring along the San Pablo dam road.

The circumstances of the case were such as to warrant the reducing of the statutory charge preferred by Wetts to simple assault to which Agnew pleaded guilty and was sentenced to six months in the county jail by Justice Frank L. Glaz.

The alleged improper advances by Agnew, who was 40, to the 17-year-old girl, were made on the day after the girl was married and an old friend of the Wetts family took the three daughters of the Wetts for an automobile ride. The 13-year-old girl was driving the car and halted at the roadside Agnew said. He vigorously denied the stories told by the younger girls, aged 7 and 8 years, who said he sent them around a nearby hill to hunt for squirrels.

DEFENSE READS AFFIDAVITS OF SCHOOLMATES

(By Universal Service)
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31.—William Edward Hickman's defense expects to be able to present its case Thursday afternoon or evening, counsel for the confessed kidnaper and slayer of 12-year-old Marion Parker indicated tonight.

The defense expects to have all its depositions in by tomorrow afternoon. Then according to present plans, Mrs. Eva Hickman, mother of the defendant, will take the stand to be followed by Alfred B. Hickman, his brother.

Alfred Hickman will be followed by William Thomas Hickman, the defendant's father.

Other defense witnesses will then be sworn in, with defense attorneys closing the case.

All day today, the Hickman defense introduced depositions with the purpose of showing that the confessed kidnaper and slayer underwent a drastic change in his senior year at Central high school, Kansas City.

Until that year, the school year of 1925-26, young Hickman had been a brilliant student and prominent in school affairs, it was generally indicated by the depositions of faculty members and classmates.

Then a change came in. Hickman slumped in his studies and showed diminished interest in his school activities and clubs with (Continued on Page Eight)

Rev. Earl Haney, pastor of the First Presbyterian church was the speaker of the day and his subject was "Robert Burns," the Scotch poet. He handled his topic in a masterful way.

The speaker said the poet had his faults, but these should be overlooked as a man in those days should not be judged by the standard of the present day. The speaker also brought out the pleasing picture of the poet draws in his poems of the family life and religious background of the people of Scotland.

In the entertainment line the Lions were fortunate in having present Mrs. Edith B. Overman, and Mrs. Jennie T. Conwell.

Mrs. Conwell gave three readings, and Mrs. Overman rendered two selections on the piano—accompaniment, and afterwards gave a humorous reading.

Affairs of the Heart and Your Marriage Problems

Patricia Lee

Patricia Lee answers questions relating to problems of married life. Names and address should be added to letters as a mark of good faith but will not be published. Readers who desire private answers should inclose a stamped self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin to cover cost of typing, etc. Because of space limitations it is not possible to print answers to all letters received, and readers who wish an early reply should take advantage of this special service. On account of the large quantity of mail coming to this department, about ten days should be allowed for a reply. Write to Patricia Lee, care of this paper.

Sometimes happiness comes through queer channels. We hear about blessings in disguise, but we very seldom recognize them for blessings until it is too late.

When L. H.'s wife ran away with another man six months ago he little dreamed that this could be anything but a tragedy in his life. But it may turn out to be the foundation for a stronger happiness than they ever had had before.

For the wife, after living with the other man, decided that she had made a mistake, and was anxious to come back to her husband. She had learned her lesson. No more would there be the temptation to try out a new love affair, to experiment with other men in order to test her own happiness.

Many a woman—and many a man, too—supposedly safely married, keeps wondering if perhaps she might not have made a mistake in choosing her life partner. Some one new comes along, infatuation creeps in and the temptation to test happiness comes. Sometimes the result is sheer tragedy. Sometimes, as in the case of the letter before, it may bring happiness.

For once, the experimenting is over, there is much more certainty, much more sureness, in the relations of the united couple. The wandering one knows now that her husband is the one she really loves. She doesn't have to apply any more devastating tests.

Dear Patricia Lee:

About six months ago my wife left me to go with another man. Now she finds out that she has made a mistake and wants to return to me, so I am going to give her another chance, as we have three children and I know they have suffered as well as the woman, I am going to make a new home for them all, as I know that all humans make mistakes. I am going to forgive, and also try to forget. My wife has given birth to a baby by this man. This child has since passed away. I want to know if I am doing right by giving her another chance under the conditions. L. H.

Do not have any further doubts about the rightness of your decision. You have, I believe, acted most wisely. Out of what might have been the complete wreck of your home, you are trying to build up a new one, a home which may be even stronger than before all this happened. Undoubtedly your wife has had her punishment, and through her own misery has been able to see clearly her terrible mistake. Together you may be able to fight your way back to the place where there will once more be harmony in your home. There is only one caution which I would give you, L. H.: Never by word or by look say "I told you so." You have made a most generous decision. You have showed a breadth of understanding unusual to say the least. Continue this understanding. Let it include the realization that rubbing it in would undo much of your constructive work in rebuilding your home. You do not need to remind your wife of her transgression. That is forever etched upon her brain. She will never forget, and in remembering, will try to atone to you and to your children.

Navy blue and red are effectively combined in a youthful ensemble for spring. The skirt, of navy blue silk, is loosely plaited; the surplus blouse is of red silk banded with red and blue embroidery; a cardigan jacket is made of the blue silk, with Indian embroideries in scarlet, white and yellow.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME

How To EARN MONEY at HOME.

By Sara Spence

For the young and active woman with or without a child of her own there is a job that is at once pleasant and profitable. It is the job of taking children for walks, watching them while they play in the park or taking them to the movies. If you are a fairly young and active woman, fond of outdoors, here is your chance. The best part of it is that you are limited only to the number of children you can get. You ought to be able to form quite a club. The price to charge for these afternoons need not be very high. In fact, it ought to be around fifty cents for each child. Depend on your profit on the number of children rather than a high rate to take local themselves. There are places of interest in every city, and long walks in the country that will make pleasant and instructive excursions for the child. And money-making ones for you!

I have completed a secretarial course and am now qualified to typewrite and take dictation at home. Due to the fact that I am unable to walk, it would be impossible for me to work in any place outside my own home. M. M.

There is very little chance to do this kind of work at home, dear M. M. Your best chance would be to get local manuscripts or legal documents to copy. You might get this work through the hotels or through an advertisement. Write to the schools and colleges near you, too.

Some days ago I read an article where you say that an elderly person might be able to get work through the government without an examination. I am presser of the better grades of coats and suits by profession—L. L.

I believe that you mean to inquire about the employment bureau which is maintained by the United States Department of Labor. This has no examination beyond asking your experience and ability, and is free. There is no age limit for the applicants.

I make powder boxes out of celluloid dolls for the Bureau. They are dressed in crocheted dresses and caps and make a very nice gift. I can sew and knit, but being lame, cannot get all kinds of work. What would you advise—D. D.

The powder boxes sound very attractive, my dear. I'll send the addresses of the nearest women's exchanges to which I would advise you to send them. See if some of the stores near you will not sell them for you, too, if you give them a commission.

THE JAZZ SINGER

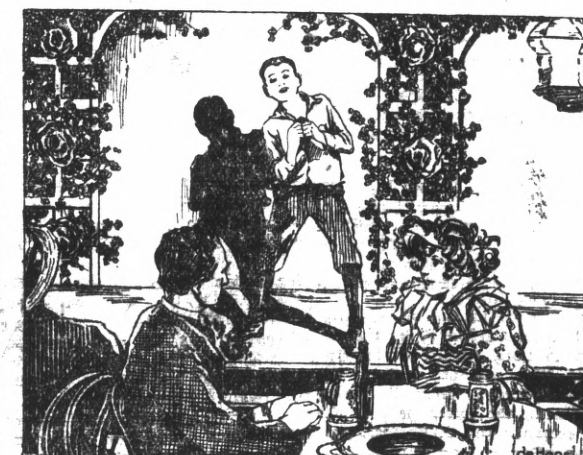

NOVELIZED BY
ARLINE DE HAAS

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
THE JAZZ SINGER, starring Al Jolson, is a Warner Bros. pictureization of this novel. It is based upon the play by Samson Raphaelson.

SYNOPSIS
The New York Ghetto seethes with the activities of preparation for the celebration of Yom Kippur, a most important Jewish holiday. Cantor Rabinowitz of the Orchard Street Synagogue, who abominates jazz and teaches his son, Jakie, the songs of the Synagogue, scolds the boy for his lack of interest in religious music. To his father's horror, Jakie announces that he does not want to be a cantor, but that he wants to sing in a theatre. A quarrel ensues and the child goes to a "beer garden" where, without his father's knowledge, he earns a few pennies singing ragtime.

CHAPTER II—Continued
As the sound of the music caught Jakie's ears the boy pushed through the swinging doors and entered the long bar. The mirrors gleamed brightly in the late afternoon sun, reflecting the gayly sparkling glasses, lined neatly on their shelves, catkins and reflecting the medley of glowing colors of piled-high bottles and their contents. Three jovial German bartenders swapped the news of the day and commented on the events of the hour with their patrons, as they slung the heavy schoons under the taps and back again across the bar.

But Jakie looked neither to right nor left. He threaded his way among the customers and the hurrying waiters, on toward the "garten" in the rear. He opened the door, stuck his head in and looked about cautiously. Then he advanced to the back of the room where, on a slightly raised platform, stood a battered old piano. Swinging lazily on a stool before the instrument sat a youngish man, heavy-eyed, sallow-complexioned. Now and again he ran his fingers listly over the keys, or stopped to remove the half-burned cigarette that dangled from his pale lips, or take a swallow from the schooner of beer that decorated one end of the keyboard.

As Jakie wound his way among the tables towards the piano various people spoke to him or smiled, and whispered to their companions. The boy nodded in return, but when he reached the musician he slapped him on the back. The pianist wheeled around and, seeing Jakie, laughed.

"Well, how's the kid Caruso today?" the pianist jocularly demanded.

"Great! How's the old kid Padonovich?" Jakie tossed back the approved answer to this airy badinage.

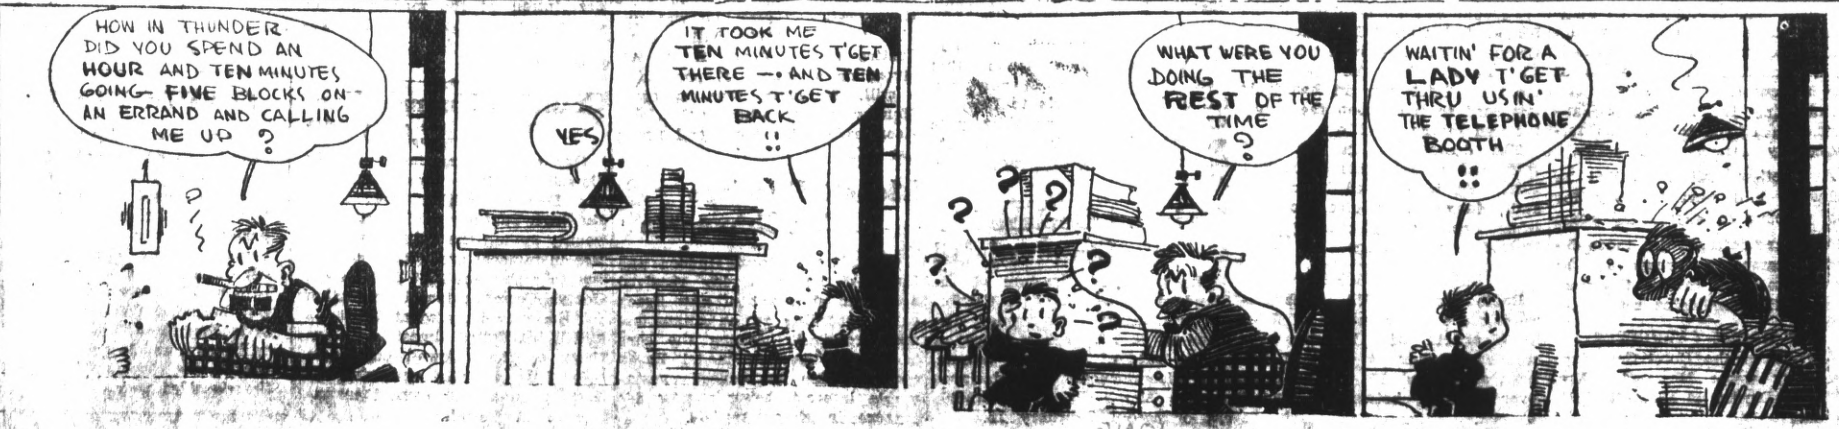

The two laughed together. And a strange pair they made. The one whose every feature proclaimed him a denizen of the night life of the lower East Side; whose face showed the ravages of dissipation and the abuse of his physical being. The other a child of the Ghetto, learned in the lore of the streets, with shining eyes, with all life before him. Yet in a few years, playing the same sort of game, the boy might easily become the prototype of the man. Neither of them, however, thought further than the moment before them. And so they laughed.

"Good house this afternoon, kid," exclaimed the pianist, lapsing into the vernacular of the theatre. "You ought to be able to pick up a couple a bucks."

The boy nodded and looked out over the "house." The tables were well filled and the crowd seemed to be in good humor. Here in one corner sat a rotund German, flanked by his heavy, round-faced wife and three jolly children. Vienna Schnitzel they were eating, and washing it down with long draughts of cool beer. In another corner lolled three bedecked women, faces hard under the heavy make-up of powder and rouge, lip stick and eyebrow pencil, sipping hot wine. At another table sat a young Jewish boy and his sweetheart, so absorbed in each other that their sandwiches were forgotten and their wine grew warm with standing. And many more of the same ilk Jakie saw. And Jakie whispered to the pianist. At a nod from the boy the musician struck up the opening chords of "Mighty Lak a Rose." In clear unerring tones, Jakie took up the air. Now with the resonance of a bell, now crooning softly, the child's voice swept through the room. The rotund German beat time with his hand on the table, nodding his head while. The young Jewish boy reached out a shy hand towards his girl, now crooning softly, the child's voice swept through the room. LUTHER LEAGUE PAGEANT GIVEN FOR BUILDING

A colorful and instructive pageant "Under the Southern Cross" was given Sunday night at the Grace Lutheran church, corner of Thirteenth street and Barrett avenue. Special lighting augmented the effectiveness of the play as did the simple but tasteful interior style of the church. White narcissus and green vines covered the baptismal font and the pulpit and other parts of the platform. The costumes worn by the characters representing the different republics in South America were both attractive and appropriate.

The cast of the well-arranged and well-directed production was as follows:

Part one, the main plot, South America, Miss Alice Johnson; Argentina, Mrs. Bessie Williams; Ten Sisters Republics, young women. Part two, episode, the "Search for Happiness," Maria, Mrs. Emma Graham; Hosea, Herbert Wuesthoff; Sacramento, Clayton Evans; Mother, Mrs. Charles A. Rayman.

Part three, tableau, Christianity, Miss Barbara Himes; North American, Miss Ethel Borgstrom; District, Mrs. Doll Williams, and representative of the Luther League, Miss Anna Stackler.

The church was filled by members of the congregation and their friends who came to view the spectacular production. This pageant was presented by the local Luther League to aid in the erection of a religious education building in Buenos Aires, Argentina. It is also being presented by the Luther Leagues in Oakland and Berkeley, in fact, all over America. The pageant depicted the work of the United Lutheran church in South America.

“LOVE MART” ON SCREEN AT THE RICHMOND

An example of how realistic the scenes of sword-play are in “The Love Mart,” George Fitzmaurice’s production for First National pictures, which will be seen today and tomorrow at the Richmond Theatre, was revealed when Gilbert Roland received a severe wound, accidentally inflicted by one of the pitiless slave-runners with a broadsword. Luckily, the wound was not serious enough to prevent Roland, in the masculine lead, from working again within a few hours.

Billie Dove, Roland and Nosh Jeary have the featured roles, and the photodrama abounds in thrilling and highly emotional scenes. Armand Kaliz, Doris Karloff, Raymond Turner and others have important parts in this romantic story of New Orleans more than a hundred years ago.

“Kangaroo Detectives,” an anti-films features include comedy, and current news events. Coming Friday and Saturday, “The City Gone Wild” starring Thomas Meighan.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: “One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there’s no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can’t disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It’s a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won’t cause distress or gas pains or griping.”

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless. And works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

LON CHANEY IN GHOSTLY TALE AT CALIFORNIA

With a hypnotized person, led to the scene of his crime, unconsciously reenact the details of his misdeeds? This is the theory, lately voiced by many experts in hypnotism and mental mysteries, which Lon Chaney uses in his latest role, that of a detective-hypnotist in “London After Midnight,” coming to the California Theatre today.

In the new picture Chaney plays a Scotland Yard detective, pitted against a strange land of criminals operating in a “haunted castle” on an old English estate. The action of the play takes place in Scotland Yard in London, in the strange underworld dives in the English capital, and in the ghostly surroundings of the castle.

Hypnotism, telepathy and the strange belief of “vampires” or the “undead” which for centuries has been held to in many parts of Europe, are all worked into the uncanny tale. A notable cast is assembled for the picture. The story is an original by Browning with the scenario by Waldemar Young. This combination created such Chaney success, as “The Unholy Three,” “The Unknown” and others of note. Other features on the same program include “No Sparkling,” a Jimmie Adams comedy; “River of Suds,” a scenic novella; and current news events.

For new proper authorities totaling $399,287,999 more than the current Budget’s were slashed grossly.

ROSSI'S CARD PROMISES FANS PLENTY ACTION

As more information is learned about Clyde Headrick, signed to fight Chick Roach of Vallejo, Friday night at El Cerrito, fans are assured that they are going to see a real fight.

Headrick has won 19 of his last 23 fights by the knockout system and if he fights Roach as he has fought his other opponents, there will be a great fight, as Chick Roach is not one to stand back and let the other fellow do all the fighting. Young Headrick is a Nevada miner and has created quite a sensation since coming to the bay region. Some of the opponents he has toppled over are: Orville Starrett, four rounds; Joe Pinto, four rounds; Tony Passick, four rounds; Mickey Lavery, four rounds; Herb Ryan, four rounds; Eddie Landwick, four rounds; "Red" Dugan, k. o., four rounds; George Brazelton, four rounds; and Mickey Wallace, k. o. in first round.

El Cerrito's pride, Joe Limas will have to stretch his arms and his whole frame to beat Johnny Lawson in six rounds. Although Limas beat Mickey Gibbons of Vallejo, at the last card, he will have to work harder this time, to win over Lawson.

Omar Weddell, former champion of the lightweight division of the Olympic club, will be an interesting person to watch, when he steps out for the first time in his career into the professional class. His opponent will be one not so well known, but capable of providing all the opposition that Weddell may expect.

Other events on the card have been arranged with an eye to entertaining the ticketholders with the best talent that is available.

Ken Smith Under Coogan's Bluff

By KENNETH D. SMITH
Return of Andy Cohen recalls frequent clashes of Giants with their former mates, such as Toledo and Buffalo players.

LOTTA fun when the big leaguers call on teams made up of boys who used to frolic with them under the big top.

TAKE last spring. Just a few days after Andy Cohen, Blackie Carter and Big Ed Kallina had been shifted from the Giants' camp to Buffalo team, Giants went to Palmetto to play exhibition game with Derby Bill (Clymer's) Bisons.

Naturally Cohen and Carter turned on full steam. They licked Giants and got more satisfaction out of it than any victory during International League season.

Cohen and Carter were roommates at Buffalo as well as in Giants' camp by the way.

WHILE later Giants played Toledo at Jackson, Tenn., there were Casey Stengel, Rosy Ryan, Freddie Maguire, young Cote and other less prominent ex-Giants in Muthen coop. To Toledo this was one of most important games of the year.

GALA day in hotel. Toledo bunch looked forward to coming of Giants. Several Giants, such as Terry, Lindstrom and Clarkson, used to play with Toledo. Big reunion day for both teams.

LATER in season Giants played Moheens again in Toledo. Whole town turned out. Shotgun and bird dog presented to Rogers Brensham, Toledo citizen, with Giants. Big pictures of Terry and Lindstrom in papers. Clarkson pitched great game and won.

HEINIE MUELLER, who had just won left field post with the Giants, subbed for Terry at first base and turned his ankle. Fans gave him big hand. Bevo Lebeureau, sent back to minors by Giants, now big gun of Toledo team.

STILL later Giants went to Buffalo. All Giants interested in Cohen's big season with Bison team.

BOTH Buffalo and Toledo won their pennants and met in little world's series.

IN CASE YOU DON'T KNOW, EDDIE ROUSH IS THE MOST TALKATIVE GIANT.

AND during the last series between Braves and Giants, Eddie Farrell got his friend Fred Fitzsimmons' goat by yelling "Fat Freddie" at portly Giant pitcher, from Boston bench.

Baptists Gain Mistake Shot From Wesley In Cage Game

Sunday school basketball league followers were treated to a double surprise last night when the league leading Wesley Methodists were defeated by the bottom leading First Baptists 24 to 22 as the result of a mistake shot by Hutton Wesley center. The two extremes of the league were having a hotly contested game with the leaders of the league in the lead by two points when their star center, Hutton, decided to put in another bucket to clinch the game with a four point lead. Somehow or other Hutton had forgotten that his team had changed goals during the half and that the Baptists had the basket that his team had had during the first half, and when he threw this bucket to make the lead, put it in the Baptists basket so instead of a 4 point lead Wesley found themselves two points behind. Thus the game ended, Baptists 24, Wesley 22.

The other game of the evening was a walkaway for the Grace Lutherans when they defeated St. Edmunds 46 to 12. Millevich, Grace Lutheran center, made so many points that the boys from St. Edmunds never did know what the score was, until the game was over.

Lineups of the teams were:

First Baptists—M. Basket and Lindstedt, forwards; Sowers, center; and F. Baskett and Regalia, guards.

Wesley Methodists—Hanrahan and Powell, forwards; Hutton, center; and Hoskins and Jenkins, guards.
St. Edmunds—Freethy and Hale forwards; Palmer, center; and Goldsworthy and Fenix, guards.
Grace Lutherans—Gillians and Baldwin, forwards; Millevich, center; and Hoylman and McLaughlin, guards. Substitutes were: Grey, Theiste and Stubb.

Tomasini, who made application to the Contra Costa Board of Supervisors recently for a permit to construct a $20,000,000 bridge from Richmond to San Pedro Hill, in Marin county, but later withdrew the application, yesterday filed with the Alameda county supervisors plans for an $18,000,000 vehicular bridge spanning San Francisco Bay from Albany, in Alameda county, to Tiburon, in Marin county. Tomasini filed notice of his intention to make a formal application for a permit for the construction of a toll bridge before the supervisors at the Monday meeting of the board.

British Asthma Victim Organize To Hunt Cure

(By Universal Service)
LONDON, Jan. 31.—Britain is organizing against asthma—and the attack is to be delivered by those who suffer from the malady. At a remarkable meeting of the Royal United Service Institution, 11 who were present were sufferers from asthma. They had been called together by fellow sufferers to set up a new body to carry on research into the causes and cure of the malady.
Lord Limerick, the temporary president, could not be present. He is suffering from asthma. He wrote a letter, which was read to the meeting, in which he gave an account of his own symptoms and his failures to relieve them. He seems to share the view of others who took part in the discussion that asthma is not really a disease in itself, but rather the "hangover" or "by-product" of some other disease.
To Study Disease
The organizers of the Asthma Research Council, which is now established, have received about five hundred letters from asthma patients, and a selection of these documents was read. A doctor, wrote from St. Annes, Lancashire, to say that he had tried twenty-five different cures and finally had to sell his practice.
Several of the speakers produced their own theories. According to one it is due to an accumulation of poisons in the blood which can be cured by dietetic means. The remedies usually employed were described as "trying to stop a leaking faucet by putting a bowl underneath." What was wanted was "to put a new washer on the faucet."
There was rebutting testimony that diet cure is no use for what was called "dry of spasmodic asthma" the origin of which was said to be probably nervous.
Not Cheerful Meeting
The meeting naturally was not very cheerful, but there were smiles when one sufferer suggested that there ought to be a center where sufferers could "meet and sympathize with one another" and where information could be collected about new remedies. The council is to be composed of asthmatics, but it was explained that the intention is to appoint a medical officer to keep in touch with research work.

Persistence

WHEN a boy baby was born in 1908, his parents began immediately to provide for his education, and opened a savings account in the American Trust Company. "The initial deposit was ten dollars." Each month thereafter a like sum was deposited. "Today the savings amount to $3,665, and of this sum $1,265 is the accumulation of interest at four per cent, compounded semi-annually." "The money will simply meet all the expense of fitting the boy for a professional career." "That's the story of how one family solved the problem of financing a child's education." "The plan is commended to all parents."

ENTIRE BOARD OF SINCLAIR IS SUBPOENAED

By JOHN A. KENNEDY
WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The entire board of directors of the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Company today were subpoenaed to testify in the renewed senate investigation of the Teapot Dome naval oil scandal.

This action was taken after a two-hour session of the senate public lands committee, during which it attempted without success to pierce the veil of mystery which has for six years enshrouded the $50,000,000 continental trading company oil deal which the government alleges was a companion transaction to the Teapot lease.

Question after question was directed at two officials of two oil companies associated in the unusual contract by Senator Thomas Walsh, (D), of Montana. His questioning of A. L. Carlson, secretary-treasurer of the Sinclair crude oil purchasing company, and J. D. Clark, president of the Mid-West Refining company, the two witnesses on the stand today, yielded little information save the names of the two men and the position they now hold.

It was these companies, which were most concerned in the huge oil purchase that showered gold into the Continental Trading Company's treasury—gold which later purchased $3,080,000 in Liberty bonds, $233,000 of which were given to former secretary of the Interior Albert B. Foll by Harry E. Sinclair a few weeks after the Teapot naval reserve lease was signed.

It is in an effort to determine the identity of the persons who received the remainder of this alleged "flush fund" that the committee is directing its attention.

Carlson, who joined with Sinclair and Colonel Robert W. Stewart, Standard Oil Company, (Ind.) chairman, in signing the Continental Trading Company contract, "could not remember" when questioned about the matter today.

His failing memory was characterized by Senator Walsh as a deliberate attempt to keep the facts of the $50,000,000 oil deal from the committee and the public.

Carlson is a director of Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Co., which is jointly owned by the Standard Oil (Ind.) and the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Company.

When Carlson pleaded faulty memory as excuse for being unable to answer the questions, Walsh declared:

"If suppose you are aware, Mr. Carlson, that the committee is unable to understand why you have such a poor memory and that there is more or less suspicion that you are not telling us truthfully about this transaction."

"I don't know," I'm telling all I know," the witness replied.

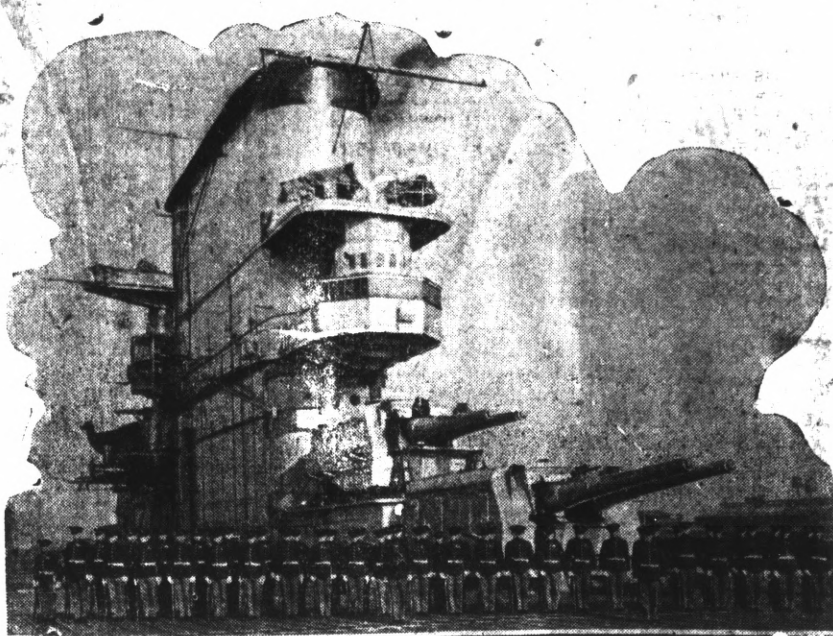

It was as a result of this failure to develop the story that the committee ordered the following directors of the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Company to be present Friday: George H. Taber, E. Kemp, S. S. Dane, H. L. Phillips, E. E. Bullock, D. W. Smith, J. E. McKann, and K. Porter, all of Chicago and Tulsa, Okla.

Carlson will again take the stand when the committee resumes its sessions tomorrow.

The committee did succeed, through the testimony of President George H. Taber of the Mid-West Refining company, in laying the foundation for the examination of Colonel Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company (Ind.), billed as the star witness of the present inquiry, who is expected on the stand tomorrow.

Seagoing Palace Wins Fight Over Storm

GALE RAKES 'FLOATING PALACE ON MAIDEN TRIP! After two-day battle with fierce winds off Atlantic coast, the Saratoga, largest and most sumptuous yacht on face of the seas, docked in New York harbor. Diesel-engine craft was built at cost of $2,000,000. It is owned by Richard Cadwalader, Jr., Philadelphia banker, who plans shortly to start trip around the world as a result of successful trial cruise.

the board of the Pure Oil Company, one of the witnesses scheduled for today, was unable to appear on account of illness. He will be called the end of the week.

Through his questioning of Carlson today, Senator Walsh sought to show that the board of directors of the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Company had merely approved the Continental contract after it was signed by Stewart and Sinclair as "dummy directors." He so declared to the witness at one stage of the proceedings.

Walsh succeeded in identifying H. S. Osler, Toronto, Canada, lawyer who acted as president of the Continental Trading Company, as associated with both the standard of Indiana and the Standard of New Jersey at one time.

Osler, refused to come to the United States to testify in the Teapot Dome cases and he is now reported in Europe. The other two principals in the Continental Trading Company deal—Harry M. Blackmer and James E. O'Neill, wealthy oil executives—fled to Europe soon after the oil scandals first "broke."

Merger of United Bank and Security Trust Announced

Fifty-nine offices, including the new Richmond Commercial Savings Bank will be brought into a single organization tomorrow when the United Bank and Security Trust Company becomes the Security Bank and Trust Company of California. Following the change of name and several legal steps the assets of the new organization will exceed $75 million dollars.

The groups thus consolidated into a single system are the Security Bank and Trust Company, Bakersfield, which has been operating thirty-four offices in California; the United Bank and Trust Company, which has been operating fifteen offices in six cities, and other banks owned by the French-American Corporation, but heretofore operated as independent units.

The French-American Corporation which was owned share for share by United Bank stockholders, will continue to function as a holding company for banks and other investments not included in the Security system.

Body of Richmond Man Found In Bay

A body found floating in the bay near Alameda by two boys is believed to be that of H. C. Fenton, missing since last Saturday. Fenton was employed as a plumber by Spierch Brothers, local plumbers for the last fifteen years, and had been in poor health when he was laid off last week.

Receipts found in the pockets of the dead man from the Plumbers and Steamfitters' union of Richmond with the name of H. C. Fenton led the police to believe that the body was that of Fenton. Richard King, of Alameda, and Frank Moore of Oakland were the boys who found the body.

SOLONS PASS SHIPPING BILL BY 53-31 VOTE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The senate today, by a 53 to 31 vote, pledged the government to the development, ownership and operation of a huge merchant marine.

Overriding administration opposition and a threatened presidential veto, nineteen republicans, one farmer-labor and thirty-three democrats joined in passing the Jones bill which provides for a permanent government owned merchant fleet.

Under the terms of the bill the unannounced consent of the shipping board is necessary before any of the present government trade fleet can be sold.

In addition it provides for a $250,000,000 program of shipbuilding to replace obsolete vessels now in service and for the development of newer and faster ocean liners.

The measure now goes to the house where, its proponents declare, it will be passed in spite of the stiff fight which is to be waged against it.

Just prior to passage of the bill today the senate voted down a number of amendments sponsored by opponents of the legislation which would make the bill less effective.

The Edge amendment, permitting the shipping board to dispose of ships by a majority vote, was defeated 52-31. This same proposal was turned down a week ago, in the committee of the whole vote by a 51-23 vote.

The Copeland amendment which would have provided government aid to private citizens to develop shipping also was beaten 51-21.

Under the terms of the bill all employees of the shipping board, save those perform executive functions, will be under civil service.

An amendment to this effect sponsored by Senator Bruce, (D), of Maryland, was adopted by viva voce vote.

The final vote on the measure was as follows:

In favor of the bill, Republicans: Blaine, Brookhart, Capper, Couzens, Frazier, Gooding, Howell, Johnson, Jones, La Follette, McMaster, McNary, Norbeck, Norris, Nye, Odell, Robinson (Indiana), Schall, Willis—total 19.

By a showing of this sort of deterioration and disintegration, it is conjectured, the defense hopes to lay the foundation for its theory of Dementia praecox. For the first time, Hickman's relations with the other sex entered the proceedings. Information on this was meagre.

Otto F. Dubach, principal of Central high school, said Hickman had associated with girls occasionally, but had not been involved in any serious cases.

J. L. Laughlin, vice-principal of the school, said Hickman had written him from Los Angeles, August 1, 1927, referring to his trouble here. The reference was to the forgery charge brought against him by a bank here. Hickman condemned himself bitterly in the letter, Laughlin said, and asked help in getting any honest work in Kansas City.

On August 31, 1927, Laughlin continued, Hickman talked with him in Kansas City. Laughlin was disappointed with Hickman. "He indicated that he was pretty well fed up with advice," Laughlin said.

Laughlin described from all Hickman's adventures with jobs: "Once he left the employment of a jewelry concern saying the men over him drank and gambled and he did not want to be mixed up with that kind of people."
